Donate to Help

For people who need health services, but live far from treatment centres, the cost of a flight can be a huge stress and strain on an already limited budget.

A free flight from Hope Air reduces the physical, emotional, and financial stress of those facing medical conditions.

Your donation helps patients across Canada access vital medical care they can't get at home.

I am a 61 year old pensioner who was diagnosed with cancer. Upon completion of the radiation therapy, I underwent an MRI scan which revealed the situation was more complicated than originally thought resulting in me having to travel for surgery. Hope Air removed a significant financial burden from our plate and worry from our minds at a critical time. My surgery was a success and now I am home and improving daily.
